Compulsory REVISION comments	This is a very perfect study, the main idea is very unique and innovative. There is very little work on the assessment of left ventricular hypertrophy using left ventricular mass, indexed to surface area. So it can be very helpful for further studies. Also, the results are so clear and the conclusion is very clear and useful.
Minor REVISION comments	Although it's a very unique an innovative study, it is better to use more recent references to compare the results with others (If exist).
Optional/General comments	In general, I am very interested with the main idea of this study. It could provide a great framework for further studies in this area.
