Compulsory REVISION comments	Reference your article entitled "Variation amount of sperm cells in the first generation of non-transgenic and transgenic Mutiara Catfish hybrid" submitted for publication to Asian Journal of Biotechnology and Bioresource Technology. Author is suggested to incorporate the following recommended modifications in paper and resubmit for further evaluation. My decision is based on the following reason(s): Comment 1: Abstract of the manuscript does not provide essential information and non-structured as well. So according to the journal format provide a structured abstract with subheadings background and objective, materials and methods, Results and end on Conclusion. Comment 2: Add 2-3 lines about the limitation or future recommendation of this study in the last portion of "Discussion". Comment 3: Provide the "Significance Statement" separately either at the start or end of the manuscript under separate heading of significance statement and reveal the major novel discovery, scope and importance of this research work in it. State this statement as follows: "This study discovered the ---- that can be beneficial for ---- and last sentence of this statement could be as: this study will help the researchers to uncover the critical areas of ---- that many researchers were not able to explore. Thus a new theory on ---- may be arrived at.
Minor REVISION comments	Comment 3: Mention the total time duration of research work with specific months and year in the start of "Materials and Methods". Comment 4: There are grammatical mistakes throughout the paper. So reread the article to minimize the typographical and grammatical errors, rephrase the sentences and use past tense throughout the manuscript.
