Compulsory REVISION comments
Minor REVISION comments	This manuscript describes a Treatment of Port Harcourt refinery effluent by a bacterial consortium immobilized on agro-based biocarriers. The subject is very interesting as well as the scientific content is very impressive for environmental community; the use of bacterial consortium appears very significant which can employed as bioremediation as ecosystem friendly. I think that this work is publishable with a minor revision. - Some Simple grammar and syntax error must be corrected; - The author could explain why keeping the plate for 5 days incubation - The symbols and abbreviation in table 2 should be defined in - Where is the A and B in figure 1, must be noted - The conclusion is so short, and not contains the essential outcomes; which should be more intensive
Optional/General comments
