Compulsory REVISION comments	Dear Authors, this is an interesting research. The proposed method to measure the spontaneous smile of children affected by malocclusion is original. In the method the study is described as randomized controlled, but there is no other explication on the randomization. Please provide more information on it. Children elected for the study were 58, but the inclusion and exclusion criteria are not well describe. It is only mentioned that the study group is composed by children affected by malocclusion. Please specify. In the results section , the children are no more 58 but 62! Please provide information regarding the sample size. It is non specified how many children are in each subgroup according with age. Probably people in each subgroup is few, I have doubt about the relevance of the statistic.
