Compulsory REVISION comments	An outstanding manuscript, plenty of advanced and reliable technology employed and consistent data base generated, comprising cross-references of many environmental and geological aspects and indicators, the seismic approach being very precise to determine lithostratigraphic definitions on failures or even basin limit subdivisions. So, it is a research to give quality for exploiting the already existent resources and to prospect new potential basins to be exploited in the future, taking into account accurate analyses, and safety procedures to be adopted, in order to preserve the environment at the same time the economic growth is achieved. Based on the arguments exposed, I am for the approval of the manuscript to be published, with huge spotlight to its quality.
