Minor REVISION comments
Optional/General comments	The manuscript offers us an insight into the perception of the Greeks in relation to the increased risk of contracting COVID-19 with the use of contact lenses. Although the data demonstrate a population's perception of a risk, I cannot clearly understand the benefit of these data for science, or how this data can help us to better understand the transmission of the virus to the lens. The authors may need to approach the topic in a different way, trying to show a greater relevance to the scientific community.
