

Editor's Comment:

I have gone through the reviewers reports and the revised manuscript. I believe the essence of peer review of a manuscript is to bring out the lapses in the manuscript so that when the corrections are effected, the manuscript comes out better and then compete better with other manuscripts that are visible online. Having said this, reviewer Hid has observed some mistakes to be corrected in this manuscript after he has painstakingly gone through it. It will be fine that you advice the authors to be diligent in effecting those corrections so that the paper will be better. The issue in contention which is changing mg/l to mol/l has not been properly addressed by the author though he mentioned that he has done that. I have attached the revised manuscript with my comments for your perusal.
